

Testimonial – Stigma Free Vet Zone

The opportunity to reach out to the veteran community and beyond is far and few between. However, when the chance presents itself, it is always incumbent upon those who have a vested interest in providing services to veterans to ensure that those services are communicated clearly and succinctly to as wide an audience as possible. Not only to inform the larger community of what is happening in the world of veteran services but to expand the scope of support for those services beyond the range of the veteran community itself. The Stigma Free Zone does just that by providing a platform for veterans like myself to discuss critical issues and exchange of ideas in a long format dialectic that is crucially needed in today's information age. I am forever grateful to Michael and the staff at the Stigma Free Zone Podcast for the opportunity to part of this growing movement as well as their time and hard work making this a reality.
